Prosperity Recorded ALEXANDRIA OPENS Throughout Country

While throughout the concluding months of last year the American Dublic generally realized that a mark d improvement had developed in the Dation's business, the extent of this Improvement could not be measured with any degree of accuracy. Since the close of the year, however, sta tistics have been compiled and annual reports issued which substantiate the predictions of prosperity. In its issue of today the New York Press publishes a summary of the re port from the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, showing the general betterment of business in the past year over the records of the previous year. It says:

Retail sales in the Middle Atlantle States in six representative lines of business showed an average increase of 13.66 per cent, in November, 1915, over November, 1914. This improved condition of business is revealed by the second annual merchandising research re-port of the Associated Advertis-ing Clubs of the World, just received here.

Clothing sales in New York city showed an average gain of 27 per cent over 1914, and drug store sales showed an increase of 25 per cent

The New York Times finds another indication of this general prosperity that is now said to possess the country in the character of goods being imported It comments on the subject as follows

Sometimes a fair index as to what a country is doing is afforded by what kind and quantity of stuff it is getting from other countries. in Is getting from other countries. In this view a certain pertinence attaches to the figures, which have just been given out, of exports from the United Kingdom to the United States for the year 1915. These total $271.092.831, as compared with $275.27.983 in 1914 and $273.550,598 in 1912. On the face of things, these statistics shows a temporary his uniform. tics show a remarkable uniformity when the difference in conditions in the three years is considered. But an analysis shows that there has been a surprising drop in manufactured goods and a corresponding in-crease in crude materials, such as wool and rubber, as well as in preci-manufacturing centers like Man-chester, Huddersfield, Bradforg, manufacturing centers like Man-chester. Huddersfield. Bradford, Dundee, and Belfast show marked declines. Those from London, that great center of the world's crude products, were nearly $25,500,000 more in 1915 than in the year before. The added stores of raw material so on-tained have helped to keep American factories busy in supplying the do-mestic needs and providing manu-factured exports, and so have aided in bringing about the present prosin bringing about the present prosperous conditions.

Some elements in the nation's business present state of the stock markets and find in the period of apparent hesitancy an indication of a general check in business. The New York World, however, declares that technical causes alon are responsible for the apathy, and asserts that underlying factors are exceptionally strong. It says:

While the scenery is probably being set for a spectacular market in the copper, the better class of indus-trials and the standard railroad shares later on, there does not seem to be any disposition on the part of the strong interests who from time to time assume the direction of Wall Street movements to encourage much activity for the present. Technical causes are alone responsible for their apparent apathy, as under-lying conditions are remarkably strong, and they are sure to assert themselves when the time is ripe. The January reinvestment movement has thus far proved to be a disappointment in so far as it has not resulted in any substantial rise in averaged to the substantial rise in averaged. erage quotations. It cannot be said, however, that there has been an ab-sence of investment buying. On the contrary, there has been an enormous absorption of high grade bonds and dividend paying stocks. The fact that prices have made no material response to these purchases is due almost wholly to the heavy liquida-tion of American securities by Europe, which has been, and still is, supplying domestic buyers with giltedged stocks and bonds on unusually attractive terms. Indeed, it is as gratifying as it is reassuring that the assimilation of these enormous offerings has been accomplished with-out any temporary impairment of market values in general.

finance trade between the allies and the United States. Foreign securities are States. Foreign securities are here in liberal quantities in payment of foreign debts, and have thus far been absorbed with remarkable readiness by American buyers. Money readiness by American buyers, Money continues easy and abundant to good buyers, although the banks have been prudently discriminating against highly inflated collateral. Heavy foreign liquidation and the warning against fancy industrials has induced some reaction in the local market, which might be carried still further in case of unfavorable developments with Mexico. United States and for the time being has distracted attention of the nation from the European strife, and caused a degree of apprehension in commercial and financial circles. The American public generally, however, appears to be still inclined to the belief that President Wilson will continue to succeed in keeping the United States at peace with the world.

During the last week the reports of both of the local street railway companies were made public and holders of the securities of both corporations had the satisfaction of seeing the surplus accounts increased. The total had the satisfaction of seeing the sur-plus accounts increased. The total profit and loss surplus of the Wash-ington Railway and Electric Company was $1.043.346.85, while the Capital Traction Company showed a profit and loss surplus of $195,014.19.

Speculators and investors are anticipating as one of the events of the week a decision in the Government suit against the American Can Company. During the concluding days of the last week the stock market re-flected the feeling among traders that the court will decide the main points in favor of the company.
